

The Battle of Pillows

con Gimmi Basilotta, Isacco Basilotta, Marina Berro, Aicha Cherif, Jacopo Fantini

musiche: Sisimizi, Persiana Jones, I Fratelli di Soledad

This idea rises from the memory of those pillow fights we had with our brothers and sisters when we were children. Here the game is amplified over and over, becoming an explosive and entertaining show.

A well-equipped area welcomes the audience before the show begins: it's all set!

While waiting for the show to start, several announcements prepare the spectators for the forthcoming battle. Suddenly a truck with the crew arrives and the audience gets involved with the last setting. Once the rules of the game are explained, a countdown starts off the battle.

Hundreds of light and colourful pillows falling down from above and there starts the battle, in a chain reaction. The audience gets involved in this little mass frenzy, in a powerful ska music background: all against all, both young and elder men and women. This crazy but inoffensive pillow fighting goes on till everybody is exhausted. After a certain sign, the whole thing stops and that's the end of the battle, feathers still flying around.

Before final greetings to the tired audience, a big and colourful sheet is spread out on the floor on which spectators can sit. The sheet suddenly blows, turning into a huge pillow to swim, roll, crawl and of course to relax on, after such a weariness.
